- Of the 331 students meeting the U.S. Department of Education requirements at the time of disbursement for the Spring 2021 semester, 269 have received HEERF CARES Act disbursements.
- UAT's first goal was to make an initial disbursement to all students who met federal criteria as soon as possible. These requirements state that eligible students are undergraduate and graduate students who transitioned from on-ground or SyncFlex classes into a virtual format who are actively enrolled and participating in all courses for the Spring semester. Students who attended online courses only during the Spring 2021 term are not eligible, consistent with Department of Education directives. Students must also be SAP-compliant or appeal their SAP-non compliant status to be eligible. Employees and employee scholarship dependents are not included. In order to support students throughout periods of high COVID impact, disbursements were allocated each term.
 - Approximately 30% of the minimum allocation was disbursed during the week of October 19, 2020 to active students. Awards were $300 per eligible student.
 - Approximately 30% of the minimum allocation was disbursed during the week of November 23, 2020 to active students. Awards were $300 per eligible student.
 - Approximately 40% of the minimum allocation was disbursed during the week of February 22, 2021 to active students. Awards were $400 per eligible student.
- Additional funding available will be disbursed in the Spring 2021 term or awarded by request based on extreme hardships. An application process is available for students with exceptional COVID related hardships for consideration of additional amounts, provided they otherwise meet Department of Education criteria, subject to availability of funds. Students signed an electronic version through PandaDoc.
- Students have been notified in all communications that any funds they receive must be used for COVID related disruptions they have or will experience in transitioning to online education. Eligible expenses could include: food, housing, course materials, health care, childcare, and technology-related expenses. Students also were notified of an option to opt-out of their portion of the grant in order to provide larger distributions to other students with greater financial need. 14 students have made such notifications and will not be included in student disbursements.
